

Target of Royal Ire

Mrs. Wallis Warfield, who will be the bride next Thursday of Great Britain's ex-king Edward VIII, has again felt the sting of royal anger—for Edward's brother, to whom he gave his throne, has now decreed the next Duchess of Windsor shall not be clothed with any royal title. She is shown here in the garden at Mont, where she will be wedded.

NORTON GUARDED, COLLAPSE FEARED

By ARTHUR J. QUINN

(Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent)

Greenfield, May 29.—Fearing another attempt will be made upon his life, Dr. Allen Norton, former cashier at the Mt. Vernon School for Boys in Northfield, where Dr. E. J. Spert was murdered in 1924, was near collapse today.

At the same time, former Deputy Thomas E. Elder, of the Mt. Vernon School, who, Norton charges, threatened to kill him with a shotgun last Tuesday night, was in White River Junction, Vt., where he will remain until his trial on Norton's charges next Thursday.

The aged doctor was released from the Franklin County jail yesterday after his $10,000 had been supplied by friends and relatives. He denied the charges in full.

"I'm no longer concerned with the Spert case," Norton asserted questioners. "What I'm concerned with is my life. My life is in danger."

Spain War Spurred By Huge Aerial Bombardments

Barcelona, May 29 (AP).—Spain's civil war took to the air today with more than 70 airplanes on both sides raiding five cities and towns in one of the most deadly demonstrations of aerial destruction ever witnessed.

Turning from Valencia, where 20 dead were counted in yesterday's attack, six big Heinkel bombers in pre-dawn darkness today rained the city of more than 100,000 population with dozens of highly explosive torpedoes, and killed an estimated 50 civilians. One hundred were wounded.

Nine Heinkel airplanes raided Santander, causing an unknown number of casualties. But this time the Luftwaffe flyers were on the alert. Prompt action brought down one of the German raiders.

DUKE IN RAGE, PLANS FIGHT ON KING

Monts, France, May 29 (AP).—The Duke of Windsor was reported today to be a temper and "ready to fight" the decree of his brother's successor which has barred Wallis Warfield from the title of "her royal highness."

He was described as "mad and sore" and the source at the Chateau de Candé said it was impossible to predict what action Edward might be contemplating.

It was said the former British monarch, who abdicated when Britain refused the Balfour declaration as queen, at first would not believe London dispatches telling of yesterday's decision.

Combined finally of their truth, the king, Lord Edward, who will wed Mrs. Warfield at Caude next Thursday, then declined to consider the decree—the first decision of the British government—behind it as final.

"H. R. H." ON THROUSEAU
It was indicated he might take action to reopen the question, which he had thought settled in his favor, before the civil marriage ceremony next week, but the procedure of such a course was not disclosed.

How the dark-haired Mrs. Warfield took the decision was not disclosed but it was reliably said that "H. R. H." and coronets had been embroiled on some articles of her elaborate trousseau.

The government's wedding present—a Windsor's friends termed the royal decree—assured to Ed.

Baby Lost in Paxton Woods

Police Join Hunt for 22-Months-Old Boy

Paxton, May 29.—Little George Horford, Jr., 22-months-old, toddled off into the woods near his Laurel street home here today and failed to return.

The family had just moved to Paxton and little George went out to explore his new surroundings while his mother was getting the house settled.

Police feared the case might be a parallel to that of two-year-old Winona Nelson of Upton, who was found near death in the woods after she had become lost while trying to find her father, at work in a nearby sugar camp.

The Horford home is a farmhouse in a thinly settled section of Paxton township.

Woods around it for miles on every side.

Organizing today's search, state police hoped for all available volunteers.

They pointed out that a large force of men must be recruited if brushland, swamp and small water courses of neighborhood were to be thoroughly explored.

The lost boy left home soon after a o'clock today. Five hours later, no definite trace of him had yet been found.

The mother, Mrs. Jeannette Horford, was in a state of collapse.

LEGISLATORS STALE BATTLE TO ADJOURN

After an all-night session marked by hilarity, girl entertainers and night-club scenes in the House chamber, the State Legislature moved toward adjournment today.

Both bodies of the General Court had been in session throughout the night and all of yesterday.

During the frequent recesses called last night, while waiting for bills from the Senate, songs, vaudeville stunts, imitations and a hail of paper wads and paper airplanes broke out in the House.

The chief obstacle to adjournment was a measure for diversion of $500,000 from the gasoline tax to the highway fund.

Governor Hurley at 10 a. m. sent a message to both branches venting a bill which provided for the distribution of the money to cities and towns instead of diverting it to the general fund.

The governor had insisted that he would keep the legislature in session until it transferred the $500,000 to help balance the budget, thus reducing the state tax on cities and towns.

The House, 89 to 101, without debate, approved the governor's veto and the Senate, also without debate, agreed to the veto.

The officers gave chase into Myrtle avenue and when the thief refused to stop fired several shots. Attempting to turn into Shore street, the car crashed into a concrete fence.

He climbed from the wrecked car and escaped, dodging between two houses.

Ann Marsters in Hollywood

Eddie Cantor, "personality plus" star of the stage, screen and radio, lives for his work and his family, he tells Ann Marsters, Boston's girl reporter. In this installment of her new and exclusive series on Hollywood, Miss Marsters describes the busy "Cantor working day." Day by day, follow this series in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

CHAPTER 2
Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—Eddie Cantor does nothing but work, work, work.

At least, it would seem so when you hear Eddie talk about his average day's schedule. First, there is his radio program to prepare each week, which takes up about five or six hours a day. Then he spends a lot of time at his own writing, selling humorous articles, every now and then, to national magazines.

And there is, of course, his motion picture work. Cantor's next picture will be "All Ra's Goes to Town," for Twentieth Century-Fox studios.

"But it isn't," said Eddie, "the work that counts. It's what you produce. And remember that the public never has any sympathy for anyone. People are interested only in what you accomplish—not in the effort you apply or may not put into it."

We talked with Cantor over a cup of coffee at the studio restaurant. You can tell, right away, that Cantor is a man with tremendous energy. And a very rare capacity for enthusiasm. He loves his work—which, of course, is one reason why he has been so successful at it.

"I never do anything that is not for the family," he said.

"We are pleased to see that you come from a part of the great Christian family where religious grave events are happening; where there is so much need for teaching on a Christian social life for the individual and for the family."

"To sustain the Christian life and to defend it we are already working. Now it is necessary to pray fervently to the Lord to take away the dangers and to make the spirit of the Christian life ever more profound and beautiful in our souls."

POPE SENDS BLESSING TO GERMAN CATHOLICS

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, May 29 (AP).—Pope Pius sent to German Catholics today a special blessing in the midst of "very grave events" in the third Reich—the intense rivalry between the Nazi state and the church over widespread "anti-Semitism" of Catholic priests and lay brothers.

Thus the Holy Father sought to fortify the church in Germany against a fierce attack by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda on the Catholic clergy at home and abroad.

GOEBBELS' ATTACK
Goebbels delivered the attack before 20,000 ardent Nazis in Berlin's Reichstag last night.

It was his reply to Chicago, Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, who accused Germany's government of fomenting atrocity propaganda on the form of the Nazi publication "Mein Kampf."

The Pope, who will be 80 years old on Monday, sent an encyclical to Germany before Easter in which he accused the Hitler government of breaking the church-state concordat and encouraging pagan movements.

Today the Pope's message was delivered to a group of German pilgrims who brought him great ward himself for the first time the "title, style or attribute of royal highness" but ruled that "his wife, or descendant, if any, shall not hold the said title, style or attribute."

Have for description of the duke's attitude by anonymous sources at the chateau, there was no representation of the former monarch's feelings. Hermon J. Rogers, American spokesman for Edward and his future, said in a third issue, that on the duke's instructions, he could not comment. Under the decree by George VI, the duke's last December, Mr. Warfield's marriage would make him the Duke of Windsor and Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Windsor—and would move her many steps down from the social position she had occupied.

Several days ago the couple's friends had announced after Edward's long undercover negotiations with London that Mrs. Warfield definitely would give the duke the little words of the title although Edward's instructions or objections barred himself and his wife forever from the throne. The duke's associates said he still desired that a semblance of official recognition be accorded the marriage by the presence of the sovereign, father-in-law, the Duke of Kent, at the wedding.

THOUSANDS TO JAM MONTS

They explained that hope for this use in Neville Chamberlain's rise Saturday to the British premiership, modifying the anti-American, Russian, Italian, with a possible modification of Baldwin's "isolation" policy toward the whole world.

If Chamberlain would not agree to this, it was thought he might agree such a trip by Edward's sister, Mary, the Princess Royal, Manchester, Monte Carlo, assisted by Mayor Charles Morris, who will perform the marriage ceremony, began final plans for protecting the duke and duchess from what they expect to be a throng of "several thousand tourists" on the wedding day.

An official declared he had received information many British residents in France were preparing to descend on the little village in the heart of the romantic country where the king and queen once lived, to witness the wedding.

The authorities had one report that an extensive train was being organized at Biarritz.

Edward Has Way to Get Revenge on Royal Family

Champlain, 1937, an international news service, May 28.—The duke of King George VI, father of the duke of "Her Royal Highness" to Mrs. Wallis Warfield when she was the Duchess of Windsor, came as a crushing surprise to the Duke of Windsor and his friends. International News Service learned today that the duke and Mrs. Warfield have received in recent weeks.

The other news was that the duke were the successive heads of a religious wedding ceremony, attendance at the wedding by members of his family, and finally by a personal (private) occupying of the duke's court positions in Britain in a religious wedding ceremony.

A close friend of the duke is reported to be the final move after the marriage all will be different. Mrs. Warfield will be accepted.

WALLIS ACCEPT HER

"None can argue the fact the marriage is undesirable to the duke's family and the British government. Like any British family, they are doing all possible to show their disapproval. But after the marriage, like any English family, they must accept her."

"They can do anything, and we anything, now, and he must take it."

"But after the marriage she is his wife, and they must respect her and accord her his standing."

"Unnecessarily—they fail to do this, the duke will have carte blanche to go to Hollywood, write or do anything he pleases."

CAN GET REVENGE

"This procedure is unthinkable, as it would only damage the royal cause and the British government. But that the duke could do it is unquestionable. I happen to know of the fantastic offers made by the movies and by publishers. His family and the government also realize this."

Under the decree, Mrs. Warfield's status will be similar to that of the Earl of Harewood, husband of the Princess Royal, the Duke of Windsor's sister. The Earl is considered the title "His Royal Highness."

Inasmuch as the duke gave up all the time of his abdication, and now lives in the title of Duke of Windsor, only his eldest child, should he have any, should inherit this title. Any other children would merely be plain "Master" or "Miss" unless they were named to the peerage by the king.

Plans Set For Wally's Honeymoon

Monte Carlo, May 28 (AP)—

The Duke of Windsor completed his honeymoon plans today for a trip "by train and by automobile" in a visit to the Duke of Windsor, who cannot share his title of "royal highness."

This trip will be about 24 hours from Paris, a spokesman said, but no other details were disclosed. Presumably the couple eventually will proceed to Washington, D.C., and, even later, may make a world cruise that will take them to the United States.

ONLY FOR SUCCESSORS

The official decision on her future status was spurned on the front pages of almost every morning newspaper. One even reproduced the page of the London Evening Standard, which made the announcement.

However, only one commented on the duke's abdication. The Times said: "The duke's abdication is a decision which is in keeping with the tradition that is right to the title of royal highness by custom at home, throughout the empire and elsewhere abroad. It is essential to the dignity of the crown."

FORFEIT BY EDWARD

"Public interest in that event is inevitable. It may be best hope that Windsor should be granted the privacy which is manifestly foremost in his own wishes and would in similar circumstances be claimed and enjoyed by ordinary citizens, but there can be neither public gain nor personal service to publicly heightened by unnecessary controversy."

The king's decree was a specific ban against any of the royal title for the future duchess and at the same time was the first according to "H. H. H." in Edward himself.

On the latter point, it was disclosed that the king's action was necessary because the duke actually had forfeited royal status when he abdicated and renounced the throne for himself and his descendants.

Yvonne 'Bosses' Quins Birthday Celebration

Callender, Ont., May 28 (US)—

The greatest sister act on earth—the Dionne quintuplets—put on a show here to celebrate attainment of the ripe old age of three years. Seated on their nursery rug, all in new birthday dresses of gay colored organdy, the five world-famous little girls smiled demurely at the camera.

Whistles and used them in rotation, Chubby Yvonne, who fancies herself as an orchestra leader, banged out the tune on a triangle.

A tune said the tune was "Marching Along the Street" and it probably was to begin with. But the quint altered the original to suit themselves, and they seemed pleased with the result by singing through the barred notes of two chairs. As this was being played, Olive, Dionne, the father, came into the hospital nursery from the house across the way and grinned as the hilarious game proceeded.

When Dr. Allan Roy Defer, who brought the babies into the world, came in, the five sisters all got together to drag up a chair for him. He took Quintie on his knee and she showed a harmonica in his hand. So he looked away. All his little charges stood about in laughing admiration.

As soon as the broadcast was over, the quins were taken to their private dining room where five large birthday cakes were set on the table, 13 candles burning in honor of the day.

HYMNS For duPont BRIDAL GOLDEN GATE SPAN World's Biggest Bridge Christened

ROOSEVELT JR. WEDS JUNE 30

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

International News Service Special Correspondent

New York, May 29.—Ethel du Pont and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will be married on June 30 to the tune of traditional hymns of ultra-modern classics—but no "swing" music.

They will walk up the aisle to organ strains of the time-honored bridal chorus from Lohengrin, and down the aisle to Mendelssohn's wedding march, but the rest of the nuptial music will be along less conventional lines.

This became known today when Dr. Charles Courbin, organist who will play at the wedding, revealed that his program would include not only Bach and Schubert hymns, but the melodies of Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass" suite.

IRVING MUSIC TARGO

Dr. Courbin explained:

"When I conferred with Mrs. duPont (Ethel's mother) at Christ Church, where the marriage will take place, I gave her more or less of a preview of the selections."

"She requested a few compositions that she and her daughter and the President especially liked, and then she left the rest of the program to my judgment."

"I included modern music, because I consider it appropriate. 'No, not swing music. I drew the line.'"

Dr. Courbin said the favorite compositions Mrs. duPont asked for were Schubert's "Ave Maria," Bach's "Aria for 2 Strings" and the "Invention" of Malby, but he was unable to recall which had been requested by President Roosevelt and which by the duPont ladies.

"ANCHORS AWAY!"

In addition to these he will play some Bach cantata and chorals, and something of Cesar Franck's "Symphonie," which Dr. Courbin considers the greatest composition ever written for organ.

"I understand there will be additional requests from President Roosevelt, but I am not sure what they will be," he said.

"Perhaps 'Anchors Aweigh.' It was suggested, that being the President's favorite tune."

Dr. Courbin laughed.

"Even that I will play, if he requests it—and with pleasure."

The musician sat at an organ in the studios of a radio station from which he broadcast, and revealed that he had once before played for a President of the United States.

PLAYED FOR COOLIDGE

That was in 1928 when the late Rodman Wanamaker, to whom Dr. Courbin was personal organist, took him down to the White House to give a private concert for President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge.

It was the occasion on which Wanamaker played a collection of $250,000 worth of string instruments, which he had played in union for the first time.

"That was an occasion I shall always remember, and I can tell you that it was a wedding because I feel that it is another moment in my life," Dr. Courbin declared.

Yvonne 'Bosses' Quins Birthday Celebration

Callender, Ont., May 28 (US)—

The greatest sister act on earth—the Dionne quintuplets—put on a show here to celebrate attainment of the ripe old age of three years. Seated on their nursery rug, all in new birthday dresses of gay colored organdy, the five world-famous little girls smiled demurely at the camera.

Whistles and used them in rotation, Chubby Yvonne, who fancies herself as an orchestra leader, banged out the tune on a triangle.

A tune said the tune was "Marching Along the Street" and it probably was to begin with. But the quint altered the original to suit themselves, and they seemed pleased with the result by singing through the barred notes of two chairs. As this was being played, Olive, Dionne, the father, came into the hospital nursery from the house across the way and grinned as the hilarious game proceeded.

When Dr. Allan Roy Defer, who brought the babies into the world, came in, the five sisters all got together to drag up a chair for him. He took Quintie on his knee and she showed a harmonica in his hand. So he looked away. All his little charges stood about in laughing admiration.

As soon as the broadcast was over, the quins were taken to their private dining room where five large birthday cakes were set on the table, 13 candles burning in honor of the day.

Fog Horn Blast Sends 3000 Racing Across Golden Gate Bridge

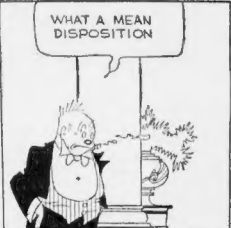

Pedestrians Pour Across Span to San Francisco Shore

From each side of Golden Gate Bay, San Francisco, thousands of cheering pedestrians crossed the world's greatest suspension bridge as a fog horn blast announced the official opening. The great bridge, three years in construction, cost $35,000,000, and was built with 100,000 tons of steel. From tower to tower the bridge stretches 4200 feet, and soars 746 feet at its highest point. More than 80,000 miles of steel cable were used in making the cables on which the bridge is suspended. Tolls of 50 cents will be collected from motorists using the six-lane roadway to pay for the construction. Ten men died building it.

2ND RACE

Suffolk Downs, May 29
New Deal, Blackboarder, Rudin and Mucho Gusto is the way this observer rates
the probable finish of the $5000 a d d Parian Handicap, mile and one-sixteenth feature here today.

New Deal, a noted stretch runner, will not coupled with Mucho Gusto as the Arden race. The latter is of the speed type and will probably kill off the early pace and enable New Deal to go on to an easy win.

FIRST—Stardust, Be Just,
Nashville.

STARDUST and BE JUST are the class, but both are far from being a right list and may get a chance to start the race as runners. STARDUST is a very good stretch runner and will probably kill off the pace and enable New Deal to go on to an easy win.

SECOND—Conservative, My Date, Candor.

CONSERVATIVE, dropping down the class, is a good stretch runner and will probably kill off the pace and enable New Deal to go on to an easy win.

THIRD—Ladonia, High Mabel, Be
Just.

LADONIA, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

FOURTH—Trackman, Parlay,
High Mabel.

TRACKMAN, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

FIFTH—New Deal, Blackboarder,
Rudin.

NEW DEAL, a noted stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

SIXTH—Countess, Be Further,
Reverent.

COUNTRESS, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

SEVENTH—The Singer, Redout, Tone Hawk.

THE SINGER, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

EIGHTH—Adriatic East, Blessed Event, Butler.

ADRIATIC EAST, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

NINTH—Ladonia, High Mabel, Be
Just.

LADONIA, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

TENTH—Trackman, Parlay,
High Mabel.

TRACKMAN, a very good stretch
runner, will probably kill off
the pace and enable New Deal
to go on to an easy win.

ELEVENTH—New Deal, Blackboarder,
